ABOUT ME

An ambitious and motivated person with a burning desire to acquire new skills and self-development. I believe that the key to success is faith, discipline, the ability to make decisions and take action. I am interested in jobs that are challenging every day and are providing great work experience. I enjoy the social life, and I support the idea that the relationships between people stand at the core of any kind of activity. I have a big passion for digital technologies, a passion discovered two years ago, when I started searching, learning, and completing web-development courses. I aim to start my working path in this area in a company that will appreciate my dedication, and in exchange, I will give my best to accomplish its goals.
